Not Independent

Escala is not independent because:

- we receive fees in respect wholesale clients that may constitute conflicts of interest;
- we may recommend products that we manage including the Escala Investment Account service and any other discretionary products; and
- our advisors have interests in financial products that may also be recommended to our wholesale clients, we are not able to refer to ourselves or our advice as ‘independent’, ‘impartial’ or ‘unbiased’.

The Financial Advice Process

Where we provide personal advice, we will listen to you to understand your objectives and circumstances. We will also ask questions to make sure we provide advice which is in your best interests.

When we first provide personal advice to you it will be explained thoroughly and documented in a Statement of Advice (SoA) which you can take away and read.

The SoA will explain the basis for our advice, the main risks associated with the advice, the cost to you of implementing the advice, the benefits we receive and any conflicts of interest which may influence the advice.

If we recommend investment platforms and managed funds, we will provide you with the Product Disclosure Statement for those products. This contains information to help you understand the product being recommended and contains information about the product including its features and risks.

At all times you are able to contact us and ask questions about our advice and the products we recommend.

You can send us instructions in writing, or via phone, email, SMS, or any other means that we agree with you from time to time. In some cases, we may require you to provide signed instructions. You must provide us with complete and accurate information about your circumstances and ensure that any assumptions that we have made when providing advice are correct. If you fail to do so, our advice may not be suitable to your needs.

We may provide further advice to you to keep your plan up to date for changes in your circumstances, changes in the law and changes in the economy and products.

If we provide further advice it will typically be documented in a Record of Advice (RoA) which we retain on file. You can request a copy of the RoA document at any time up to 7 years after the advice is provided.

Fees

All fees that are payable in connection with the services provided by us are payable to Escala. The services and fees to be provided by us will be set out in our SoA or RoA. If you enter into an ongoing service agreement with us, you will receive annual fee disclosure statements and we will ask you to renew the agreement and consent to the deduction of advice fees from your account each year.

Initial Advice Fees

We will generally not charge you a fee for our initial advice. If we do intend to charge a fee, we will agree the fee with you in writing before providing any services. This fee is negotiated between you and your Investment Advisor and is capped at no more than 5.5% of the total initial investment.
